#3

Share a few interesting things you learned throughout this research process (try to come up with at least two).

Describe the general topic you would like to cover in your chapter.

What are the sub-parts of this chapter? That is, what are some of the smaller topics or issues that make up this more general topic?

How could you narrow down the focus of your chapter?

Explain why you think this is an important issue or topic to understand.

Pose questions to your group to get help and guidance – what are you still struggling with?
What do you need help on? Write out the advice or guidance you receive.
